SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 5.

If Anarchist Spies can be married by proxy, why can't some one live with his wife by proxy. One proposition is about as sensible as the other.

The president has signed the interstate commerce bill. The attorney general has declined to publicly express his opinion of the bill, but the assurance has been received that he regards it constitutional.

A committee of five has been appointed by the republicans of the Indiana legislature to lay the facts before the United States senate as to Mr. Tappie's election to that body, and request an investigation. If the republicans of Indiana put themselves in a position where they could be beaten by the democrats, they should be manly enough to stand by the result without a whimper.

The St. Paul Pioneer-Press figures this out what high issues will do in that city: "its complete enforcement in St. Paul would probably reduce the number of saloons, now about 700, at least one-half, and possibly two-thirds. If it reduced the number one-half, this would put $350,000 annually into the city treasury—five times the sum now collected from liquor licensees—a sum sufficient to pay all the annual interest on our city debt and to build ten or twelve public school buildings annually besides. It would enable the city to adorn itself with a magnificent system of public parks. Accumulated for three years it would build two bridges over half a mile long and a hundred feet high across the Mississippi. Accumulated for twelve years it would wipe out the city debt."

It is not a very rose-watery view that the Louisville Courier-Journal, democratic, takes of the outlook for the democratic party. Here is a specimen of its compliments to the present administration: "Meanwhile the Irish are being driven off in droves by the administration's alternate diabolus with the bigger and the Saxon. The Phelps treaty alone if it had not repudiated, is good for 300,000 votes against us. This Matthews business will certainly bring us none. But the president's love of the whimsical does not stop in the dark passages and out of the way corners of patronage. It attaches itself to issues and ideas, and is nothing if not paradoxical. He really believes that he can detach the negro from the republican party, and succeed when Horace Greeley and Charles Sumner failed. This might be good politics in Lilliput, but in Washington it raises a smile, where it does not provoke a damn."

There is some vigorous discussion going on about the pass system; and the attitude the farmers have taken in regard to it, and a correspondent wants to know the position of the Gazette on that subject. The Gazette has already been outspoken on the question. It is a very serious reflection on the legislature and he judiciary that a law must be enacted to prohibit members and judges from accepting a free ride on railroads. If it is thought that such a piece of legislation will make members of the legislature honest and the judges of courts incorruptible, the public will be disappointed. Men are not made upright in that fashion.

The Gazette does not believe in the entitlement by legislation of the rights of any one. It believes in the common sense doctrine of faith in man's manhood, and not in the theory that a judge can not decide justly, and a legislator vote honestly, if they have free railway transportation in their pocket. We believe in any man riding free on a railway if he can do so with the permission of the railway authorities, and the more passes he has the better. There is not a farmer in the legislature or any one else in that body who favors Mr. Winsor's joint resolution, who would refuse an annual pass as a compliment. Of course not; and to vote in opposition to their own convictions on this question is a piece of nonsense that high minded men should not indulge in. We do not believe that because a man is elevated to the legislature or is elected to the bench that he must surrender his right to accept the country, in the shape of a pass, from a railway company. Neither do we believe that such a surrender, were it made, would make a public servant honest, if, with a pass, he would be against the public interest and in favor of corporation schemes.

THE HONESTY OF LINCOLN. In the February number of the Century is another instalment of the excellent life of Lincoln by Hay and Nicolay, who were the great War President's private secretaries. In the last chapter of this remarkable life is related a characteristic story, illustrating the sterling honesty of the great Lincoln. At the time Lincoln ran for congress against the Rev. Peter Cartwright, his friends imagined that the canvass would be a very difficult and expensive one. Consequently a purse of $200 was made up and given him by Joshua Speed to cover his expenses. After his election Mr. Lincoln returned $100.25 of the amount to Mr. Speed, with the explanation that as he had used his own horse and been entertained by his friends, he had spent only 75 cents of the $200 given him.

When one reads such a statement of facts as this, he is forcibly struck with the change in the times and in the manners of politicians. Campaigns are not now fought without a lavish expenditure of money. If a politician does not spend his own money he freely spends that of others which is raised for campaign purposes. No one ever thinks, who is running for an office, of returning an unexpended balance, for all of it goes in the election and more besides. So it is quite refreshing in these days of iron-clad political methods to read about the old-fashioned honesty of those who ran for office in the time when Lincoln began his public life.

AN ENORMOUS PENSION ROLL.

The reports from Washington show that the pension roll of the United States is increasing at the rate of 20,000 names, a year. Beginning with the year in which the civil war ended, the number of pensioners and the amount of disbursements steadily increased until the maximum was reached in the fiscal year 1872-'73, when there were 238,411 names on the roll, which called for about $30,000,000 a year. For five years following there was a falling off, until in 1877-'8 the roll contained only 223,938 names, and required less than $27,000,000 a year. In the natural course of things, during the nine years which have since elapsed, the law of mortality should have reduced the number of pensioners far below 200,000 and the annual disbursements on their account to a sum not much exceeding $20,000,000. But congress became anxious to still more for those who claimed pensions, and in 1879 the arrears of pensions got to be a law, and this stimulated the pension business, and up to date had added $218,000,000 to pension expenditures.

Since then congress has made the pension laws more liberal than ever, so that the number of pensioners in the United States in 1886 was 265,733, and the appropriation for 1887 was $75,000,000. The following is a table which commands thoughtful attention, which shows how the pension roll and the pension disbursements have increased since 1863:

	Number of Pensioners.	Disbursements.
1863	83,383	$ 8,627,152
1864	100,000	10,000,000
1865	150,000	15,000,000
1866	169,648	24,000,000
1867	184,000	25,000,000
1868	194,000	25,000,000
1869	207,446	26,000,000
1870	207,446	26,000,000
1871	238,411	30,000,000
1872	223,938	27,000,000
1873	223,938	27,000,000
1874	224,821	29,000,000
1875	224,821	29,000,000
1876	224,821	29,000,000
1877	224,821	29,000,000
1878	224,821	29,000,000
1879	224,821	29,000,000
1880	224,821	29,000,000
1881	224,821	29,000,000
1882	224,821	29,000,000
1883	224,821	29,000,000
1884	224,821	29,000,000
1885	224,821	29,000,000
1886	265,733	30,000,000

It is estimated that the pension bill of this country will soon exceed the entire cost of maintaining the vast army of France and Germany. The work of swelling the list of pensioners still goes on with vigor, and there is no telling where it will end. Should Ingalls succeed in passing through the bill which he is championing and the president should sign it, it will cost the country an additional sum of $150,000,000.

The Typical Mining Prospector. "The queerest thing in the whole mining business," said a bright-eyed and talkative passenger from the west named Eastman, "is the prospector. I should think some good writer could make up a prospector and make a hero of him, or at least in a play or a comic figure. The typical prospector is certainly a scoundrel. He comes into a town all alone, hires a house, and hardly touches the ground with his feet. His face is radiant, and he can hardly abstain from talking with every one he meets. Finally he picks out a wretched citizen, takes him aside and whispers in his ear.

"I've struck her. Struck her rich this time. Get her sure. A big lead; sure for fortune. All I want is a chance to show her up. Say, grub, take me and I'll give you up. I'm a fortune for both of us, and no mistake."

The Monongahela Strike. PITTSBURG, Feb. 5.—There are now five of the coal works on the Monongahela River in operation, paying the price of $10 and passed resolutions sympathizing with the miners. The miners are ready for a strike, and the miners are ready for a strike. One of the other men will stop up and say: "The firm advertises in the 'News' and the would-be purchaser will refuse to purchase. During the conversation one of the parties is to leave the card lying on the counter. This is the plan stated by a member of the knights who opposed the movement.

Funding Business for Uncle Sam.

BOSTON, Feb. 5.—Representatives of all the local labor assemblies met Friday night and passed resolutions sympathizing with the New York strikers, and calling upon the government to take charge of the coal mines under the right of eminent domain.

"In a few months he returns. His plump hanger hangs like his legs, as it were. He looks sheepish and shamefaced. He sneaks around the camp a few hours and finally musters up enough courage to go to his backer and report the failure of the claim.

"In a few weeks or months the same performance is gone again through his eyes. Again he is just as contented as to work before, just as radiant, quite as sure that he has 'stuck her' good for at least, and big for a while. His face is as fresh as a rose. He gets another grub, and away he goes, hopping and skipping, into the mountains.

The Old Colony Resumes. BOSTON, Feb. 5.—The Old Colony railroad has resumed receiving freight for New York subject to delay. Owing to existing difficulties in New York freight for points beyond cannot be received.

Not Hurting His Bridges Behind Him.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Dr. Shadley, the physician of Father McGlynn, in an interview Friday said: "Dr. McGlynn has not stood by him. He would not go to Horca. As I understand it, he would not leave the jurisdiction of the ecclesiastical court, but that does not pre-suppose that he will not possibly go when he gets better, and stand trial. That is still an open question." Dr. Carey says McGlynn told him he would not go to Horca. The Randall and Morrison Men.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 5.—Randall has received a communication from Speaker Cobell on the part of the tariff reformers in the house, stating just how far they were willing to go towards meeting the Randall men to harmonize in a proposition to reduce the revenue. The propositions advanced, some of the Randall men say, are not such as would bring the Morrison and Randall men together. The latter will give the matter respectful consideration. A failure to harmonize, the Randall men say, will not prevent them from going ahead on their own hook. The Randall men held a conference yesterday with the House and Senate representatives, Randall, Warner of Ohio, and Hamby of California, to nominate a committee to prepare a reply to the tariff reformers' overtures.

The Spanish Minister Tells Retaliation.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 5.—Secretary of State, the Spanish minister, says his views favoring a policy of conciliation on the part of Spain under a reciprocity treaty between that country and the United States, are not yet fully understood in this country.

Washington City, Feb. 5.—The Star Friday evening published the following under the caption: "To impeach Secretary Munn."

"This evening or to-morrow evening a number of members of both parties in the house intend to hold a conference for the purpose of drawing up resolutions of impeachment against Secretary Munn for violating the laws of congress in his official acts. This movement is being promoted by the ultra silver men, and grows directly out of what they construe into a virtual acknowledgment in his reply to the Weaver resolution, that he had violated the law requiring that mutilated notes presented for redemption shall be redeemed in notes of the same denomination. The Star reporter goes so far as to say that the ultra silver men, who desire that there be no law, could in it, but that it is the result of a serious determination to resist a violation of law."

"In addition to the case with relation to the encashing of treasury notes, it will be charged that the law has been repeatedly violated by the failure to purchase the $2,000,000 worth of silver each month. It will be charged that, while the law is mandatory, the fact that such amount shall be purchased each month, the treasury department fails to make the purchase during my month, and that the price of silver has advanced, and has not been paid for two months or more when they have been paid the amount and brought the price to a low point."

"It is known that the ultra silver men are very much agitated over Secretary Munn's reply to the Weaver resolution. One of the leaders of that faction informed a representative of the United Press Friday night that the impeachment story was, to say the least, premature. The gentleman admitted that there had been a great deal of talk as to action on the reply sent to the house by the secretary, but he declared that so far no definite plan had been agreed upon.

BECK'S BILL MODIFIED.

The Senate Passes a Mild Form of the Hailley Attorney Act.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 5.—Letters from many of the senators in the Senate Friday, asking that Chicago and St. Louis, respectively, to make "reservoir cities" the same as New York. A petition from citizens of this city was read asking congress to make suitable appropriations for the schools here, and stating that the ratio of crime to population was greater here than in New York City. A substitute for the house joint resolution for an investigation of the Pacific railways was reported from the judiciary committee. The senate bill to refund to the states territories and the District the amounts paid on the direct tax of $100 was passed after a short discussion. The bill, after the amount was taken off, was $100,000,000, and nearly the tax where it was paid at all. Beck's railway attorney bill was then taken up, and Hailley's amendment making it unlawful for members of congress to act as attorneys in suits against the United States or in cases where measures affecting the interests of a subsidized company are pending in congress, was adopted—yeas, 29; nays, 21. Salsbury's amendment, which left out the penalty was rejected. Hailley's amendment was then proposed, and after a vote of 21 to 20, it was rejected—yeas, 20; nays, 21. The bill was then passed—yeas, 31; nays, 17, and the senate adjourned.

The senate and says on the adoption of Hailley's amendment was then adopted as a substitute—yeas, 21; nays, 21, and the bill was reported to the senate, and Beck moved the adoption of his original bill; rejected—yeas, 17; nays, 20. The bill was then passed—yeas, 31; nays, 17, and the senate adjourned.

The senate and says on the adoption of Hailley's amendment was as follows: Yeas—Baker, Berry, Blackburn, Butler, Cade, Clegg, Dake, Fair, George, George, German, Jones of Arkansas, McPherson, Manderson, Mitchell of Oregon, Salsbury, Voorhees, Walpath, Whittemore, Wilson of Iowa, and Wilson of Maryland—21.

Two bills presented to the house voted of the bills pending in the house, the one which was distributed from the other committee of the senate left to retire and Beck moved the adoption of his original bill; rejected—yeas, 17; nays, 20. The bill was then passed—yeas, 31; nays, 17, and the senate adjourned.

MADE A LAW OF THE BILL.

The President Signs the Interstate Commerce Act—Garland's Opinion.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 5.—The president has signed the interstate commerce bill. It is learned from authentic sources that the attorney general's opinion upon the bill was in favor of its constitutionality. The president in signing the bill, however, expressed his desire that the bill be referred to the cabinet. Mr. Garfield will not take it in regard to the justice holding that his legal advice to the president was constitutional. He refused to answer the question as to how the bill differed from the bill which he pronounced unconstitutional some years ago. The signing of the bill was the general topic of discussion Friday night, and the nation of the president was generally approved by all parties in view of the majority by which the bill passed both houses.

INDIGNANT SENATORS.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 5.—There was vigorous talk in the house Friday afternoon as to the senate Hailley—Baker bill, and the senate to take a fair vote on its original bill, and not go before the country and accuse them of doing something equivalent to the original bill, while the fact was that every senator suggested was either to make the bill ridiculous or leave the evil untouched. When Hailley's amendment had been adopted Beck said there was nothing in the bill to carry for a great deal, but he wanted it to go to the house, which might put something in it worth having.

Beck characterized the original bill as a grossly unconstitutional, awkward, crude, ill-considered, ill-conceived scheme, which was not only an insult to the senate, but an insult to the American people. The bill was not an outcome of any popular or public demand, but came from enormous publications by blacksmelters and stock jobbers in irresponsible newspapers. Each concluded by saying he had heard enough of this arrogant, insulting, domineering style, attempting to frighten senators from doing what was right.

Just before the final vote was taken, Beck said he had been a member of the senate for seven years, but had never witnessed a more disgruntled scene in the senate than what just occurred. Things had been changed by immundo. The senator from Kentucky said that those who were opposed to this legislation were dishonest. He did not think it becoming in any man to be a member of the Senate.

If you have anything to say to the people of the city or county you can speak to more of them through the columns of the GAZETTE than through any other medium published in the same territory.

BRIEFLIES.

The W. C. T. U. rooms give promise of being very attractive when their fitting up is finished.

There is a probability that the three girls sociable in this city will unite and give Justin McCarthy a rousing reception.

C. H. Finley has sold out his restaurant known as the Sea Side, to William Fackner, formerly of Paw Paw, Michigan.

Our streets are very lively with people and teams from the country to-day, some of the business streets being crowded.

On to-morrow evening the Rev. T. De Witt Pease will speak upon the subject, "Is the Work of Temperance Reform a Failure?"

The artesian well is now 550 feet deep and the flow of water increases considerably as the drill penetrates the different layers of potash.

The good citizen, whose hands are still blistered from shoveling snow will take comfort in the fact that no cold waves are predicted for July.

There is considerable talk of the removal of one of Janesville's well known establishments—the Badger Soap factory—to Oshkosh. It is hoped that this will not be done.

Many of the local merchants accommodated the Good Templars in many ways, while the plays presented last evening were being enacted, and their kindness was thoroughly appreciated.

St. Knights with their ladies filled the K. P. Hall last evening and joined in the dance for which Smith & Corliss' orchestra furnished the music.

The Knights of Labor party at Apollo hall last evening was a very enjoyable affair. There was a large attendance and everything passed off smoothly.

Last evening a party of twenty-five friends were entertained by Miss Francie Holloway, at the home of her parents in the second ward. Dancing music, and cards made the time pass very swiftly and all of the guests spent a very enjoyable evening.

The remains of Miss Fannie Grinnell, of Milton Junction, were brought to this city for interment to-day. Services were held at St. Mary's church, the Rev. Father Roche officiating and at the close the remains were interred in the Catholic cemetery.

The Rev. H. A. Miner will preach as usual to-morrow morning and evening at the Congregational church. The topic of the morning sermon will be "The Specie Work of Christian Church." In the evening "Your Mind" will be the subject of discourse. To this service the young people are especially invited.

Dr. Miner says he experiences no inconvenience from the reported dull season; his time is more than occupied. He has patients from Chicago, Madison, Brodhead and most all adjacent cities and towns, boarding here and taking treatment; his average work is 20 cases daily. Few men could do this work for one week, yet Dr. Miner seems to gain strength daily.

Mr. Geo. Rawson, of the firm of Turner, Clark & Rawson, Boston, Mr. H. F. Dunham, civil engineer of Cleveland, and J. E. Dodge, Esq., of Racine, are in the city to-day, consulting with the city attorney, C. H. Pierce, formulating a contract for the construction of water works in this city. This firm proposes to put in a plant, similar to the one by Bullock & Co., charging $3,000 for 100 fire hydrants.

This afternoon occurred the death of Martha Yerger, the fourteen-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Yerger, of the second ward. Much sympathy will be felt for the family that has been saddened by the Grim Reaper's visit before the grief caused by other bereavements had been soothed by the hand of Time. The little one had been sick, about four weeks. Funeral services will be held from the home in the rear of the Centennial bakery on Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

"I have an aversion," says the Chicago Journal's stroller, "to long lectures. I never hear a two hours' discourse, no matter how good it may be, that I do not feel when I leave the lecture room that my mind has been drummed into a blank—an abiding void, that I am an imbecile for having endured all the drumming in which little soft tape often repeated has destroyed memory of form and color, and cultivate absolute originality and consider Nature the teacher of teachers, and from her learn the Art of Art.

Another large view of the shaded cloister of a monastery excels in the massing of lights and shades. The massive stone walls show the delicate tracery of the carving in distinctness. In "The Devil's Glen in Ireland" there is a soft blending of shades in the reflection of the green tints of foliage and drooping vines in the still pool. It is suggestive not of a resort for imp, but of a cool retreat for water nymphs when the waves of summer heat quiver upon the open fields. In finishing his work Mr. Davies shows undoubted skill in obtaining fine effects.

Mr. E. Burdick has done a large amount of artistic work in which he exhibits special talent supplemented by careful discipline and study. The writer regrets inability to examine and describe his best paintings.

It will be impossible to enumerate the younger amateurs for their number is legion and hence these jottings have been limited to professionals and the more experienced artists of the city. To one who will consequently examine the different degrees of skill of a large number of artists, the conclusion is inevitable that those are most successful, who adopt the theories of the new school of French artist styled Impressionists, who avoid all conventionalities of form and color, and cultivate absolute originality and consider Nature the teacher of teachers, and from her learn the Art of Art.

From Richmond, Va.—I sell a great deal of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup and find that it gives better satisfaction than any other Cough Syrup.

I. WILSON MOSLEY, Druggist.

"Out upon a midnight dreary," when I looked so sad and weary, upon my bed laid with pain, friend bought me a bottle of Salvation Oil. It cured me. I ached this, and "nothing more."

The Weather.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 21 degrees above zero. Cloudy with southeast wind. At 1 o'clock p.m. the register was 31 degrees above zero. Cloudy with southeast wind.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Mouser, of Rock Prairie, returned last evening from their daughter, Mrs. T. J. Fowle, at Fort Worth. Mr. Mouser says that Rock Prairie is ahead of any country he saw on the trip.

SILAS HATNER.

AMONG THE ARTISTS.

The paintings of Mrs. F. Fellowes are worthy of special mention. A life-size portrait of W. C. Bryant, from a small wood cut, is finely executed. She has also in progress of completion the "Joe-wal" concrete presentation of one of our prominent business men. In autumn scene she has been successful in obtaining natural effects with rich coloring, bringing out the crimson flame of the maples in striking contrast with the sombre pines and hemlocks. In a sunset scene in New Hampshire is noticeable the peculiar, translucent appearance of the waters and the mineral gray of the overhanging granite rocks.

Mrs. E. B. Hemstreet is an artist of skill, and in careful and painstaking her work. She is quite successful in painting animals. In a cattle scene, and a group of hunters seeking for the trail, the shading is fine, defining the outlines of the tense muscles and the natural posture of each animal. A fluffy spotted kitten in an limb.

Mrs. Clarence Clark has some fine studies of still life. Upon a crumpled copy of the Janesville Gazette, are some Baldwin apples, with one cut in halves, and a knife lying invitingly near. They are so natural with their ruddy cheeks and juicy hearts that they are especially tempting to the observer. The type upon the newspaper is traced as distinctly that a portion can be read. In another sketch, entitled "Devotion" in the uplifted face is seen the rapt expression of one wholly intent on heavenly things.

Mrs. L. Croft has some fine paintings—"Off the coast of Heligoland," a large marine view, is well executed. A sketch of a deer run or opening, is finished with great delicacy. A study of thistles and morning glories upon glass is well executed.
